Webbs: Stop lies, lunacy, we may file case vs De Lima

Webb's father, former Sen. Freddie Webb, and his family chose to spend one night after De Lima and the FBI presented new "evidence" undermining Webb's affidavit because "it was not clear, clear as day, clear as the night sky, clear as the sun."

The Webb camp said that the agency under the Department of Justice involved in the investigation of the case, after the accused were released of evidence, immediately released photos of evidence to the press.

The case and the FBI on Tuesday said the inquiry ordered by President Obama would not be a search and seizure of evidence, but a search for evidence that Webb was in the country during the 1981 killing.

Freddie Webb, 47, and his daughter, Laila Webb, 18, and his son, Freddie Webb, 17, were found with multiple stab wounds on June 30, 1981, in their home in Washington, D.C. Webb was also killed.

In a ruling on Dec. 14, the Supreme Court said the probe would be limited to the search for evidence that Webb was in the country during the 1981 killing.

Laila Webb, 17, who was found with multiple stab wounds, was found with a knife in her hand. She was found with a knife in her hand. She was found with a knife in her hand. She was found with a knife in her hand.

Provinces split on P-Noy's first year

By Inquirer Staff Writers and Contributors

LAGUNA CITY—Nation's sectors in Boost Noy appeared to be satisfied with the performance of President Aquino in his first year in office.

In an informal survey that the Philippine Information Agency (PIA) conducted among members of the academe, non-government organizations, religious groups and government and private sectors, most gave the President a performance rating of 3 to 4 out of 5, where 5 is the highest.

Mr. Aquino, according to the PIA survey, rated high in fighting graft and corruption, transparency, strengthening and protection of government officials, and to economic innovation.

The respondents also rated the private sector's participation in infrastructure projects, the concern to protect the environment and the ban on the use of arms in mining the positive aspects of his administration.

Some respondents were also satisfied with what the President performed in the areas of job and livelihood generation, improving quality of education, ensuring security, resolving the problems of the elderly, drug, prison, labor relations with employers and other social groups, and efforts to end child prostitution.

Hostage crisis

In Sept., Sulu, Basilan, Zamboanga City police had said that the Aquino administration showed indifference in the handling of the Manila hostage crisis, where eight Hong Kong tourists were killed in a hotel room on suspicion by the police.

The President should have personally handled the situation considering that the hostage crisis was foreign, the government would have shown his concern for the international community," he said.

In Santa Rosa, Eduardo Manzano Jr., founder of the Citizens' Human Movement, summed up the first year of Mr. Aquino as "mixed expectations." Manzano, a former Bureau of Corrections director and representative, said that while the Aquino administration was leading "one still needed and badly needed."

The continuation of the traditional role in the economy, said Mr. Aquino, was not enough. He said that the government should have more economic and social policies. This included dependency rates this plan, he added.

Aid corruption

In Pangasinan, Wilfredo Torres, Central Luzon governor of the Philippine Chamber of Commerce and Industry, said the Aquino administration's anti-corruption drive was a good start, but he said that the government should be more proactive in fighting corruption.

In Marikina, DepEd City Mayor Benjamin Lito said Mr. Aquino's administration is a good start, but he said that the government should be more proactive in fighting corruption.

"I am sure that the government will be able to do this," he said. "I am sure that the government will be able to do this," he said.

In Quezon City, DepEd City Mayor Benjamin Lito said Mr. Aquino's administration is a good start, but he said that the government should be more proactive in fighting corruption.

not doing the right thing. He said that the government should be more proactive in fighting corruption.

Crime campaign

He said Mr. Aquino had still to show his leadership in fighting crime, but he said that the government should be more proactive in fighting corruption.

Like Marikina, the chair of the National Police Commission, and Mr. Aquino's police chief, he said that the government should be more proactive in fighting corruption.

"It is good that the national government has created a task force to look at the crime and security issues," he said, but the police is slow," he said.

In Iloilo, Mr. Prospero Tancin, chair of the National Commission on Human Rights, said that the government should be more proactive in fighting corruption.

"This is not just for the sake of the government, but for the sake of the people," he said.

Also, however, a resident of Marikina said that the government should be more proactive in fighting corruption.

MANILA (The Philippine Daily Inquirer) — A group of scholars of the Philippine Chamber of Commerce and Industry, said the Aquino administration's anti-corruption drive was a good start, but he said that the government should be more proactive in fighting corruption.

In Marikina, DepEd City Mayor Benjamin Lito said Mr. Aquino's administration is a good start, but he said that the government should be more proactive in fighting corruption.

Globe Telecom: Delivering services in times of emergency

UTILITY DISASTERS are naturally expected to deliver basic services, information and where they are needed. However, once disaster strikes, the importance of utility companies is further highlighted as people stand by for continuous supply of power and public water as well as uninterrupted telecommunications services.

Globe Telecom, the country's leading telecommunications provider, has come up with a business continuity management program compliant to international standards to make certain that business processes especially those with the greatest impact are uninterrupted even during emergency situations. Its primary goal is to ensure that Globe is prepared for, can respond to, and is able to recover from a disaster.

In its first step, Globe has completed upgrades on its network, bringing backbones which span from Cebu all the way to Mindanao, thereby allowing improved network coverage even during calamities. "The telecom-critical systems of Globe are designed for redundancy. That is, redundancy is not only through the installation of redundant components, but also through disaster recovery sites which allow Globe to operate back-up sites to take one of its facilities fully," said Globe chief risk officer Allan de Guzman.

At present, Globe has three IT Data Centers which are strategically located to ensure the possibility of system downtime due to man-made and natural calamities. A fourth Data Center is in the process of being set up in an area not vulnerable from flooding and seismic ground movements. The IT systems are properly tested or monitored according to business impact so that the necessary infrastructure, technical support and processes are put in place. The disaster recovery platforms and programs are also regularly tested to ensure that they will work when needed, and enhanced whenever necessary.

Moreover, the crisis management program of Globe and the people behind it provides an assurance that Globe can immediately rise above a disaster. In Luzon, it said that disaster preparedness and response has always been an integral part of the company's operations, with the safety and security of its employees being the paramount concern, along with the protection of its property and assets.

Globe regularly undertakes Emergency and Disaster Preparedness Program risk assessment campaigns, life safety trainings, and periodic emergency drills, particularly for the corporate offices and major facilities to manage and mitigate the effects that disaster can pose to the company's network infrastructure.

Last year, as a testament to the company's unwavering commitment to public service, Globe organized a Regional Crisis Management Group subject matter experts to provide a "gap response" capability for crisis occurring at the regional level and to ensure appropriate risk reduction strategies are implemented at all mission-critical sites of Globe. By adopting a "region-based" approach to disaster response, the people are assured that regardless of the event, critical services will continue to operate. This approach to crisis preparedness for natural disaster and events that could affect Globe employees and network.

Each Regional Crisis Management Team (RCMT) is expected to address crisis situations which have an impact on nationwide operations, so as to ensure the network infrastructure, service services at the moment possible time, and maintain the impact of the crisis.

During severe weather conditions, Globe coordinates with the National Disaster Risk Reduction and Management Council (NDRMC) through the National Telecommunications Commission (NTC) to update them on the state of the company's network.

To give back to the communities where its sites and people are located, Globe through its Corporate Social Responsibility arm Globe Building Communities, conducts community relief operations and sets up free calls and charging facilities in affected areas. In Marikina, sets in community rebuilding and rehabilitation initiative resulted in 2007 to help people rebuild their lives after the devastation brought by typhoons Ondoy and Pepeng.

"Our people are trained to prepare for and respond to a disaster and ensure immediate restoration of service within 24 hours. While we are time to make our network disaster-ready by addressing points of failure, and ensuring heavily on redundancy and voluntary measures, our trained and committed teams serve as our second line of defense in the event our network is still hit by disaster," added de Guzman.

Overall, Globe has taken steps and action for continual improvement in ensuring that its services and the value organization is disaster ready because in Globe, Emergency and Disaster Preparedness is not just a priority but an inherent value.

Globe sets up mobile charging facilities in disaster-stricken areas to ensure continuity of network services.

Relief operations are regularly conducted by Globe to communities suffering from heavy rains and flooding.

Super Value-For-Money Condo Property at the East

East
BEL-AIR
RESIDENCE

Sta. Lucia Land, Inc., one of the country's most diversified residential and leisure property developer - has raised the concept of masterplanned condominium development to a new level.

Embodying this latest upward trend in change the suburban skyline is the East Bel-Air Residence project on the cross of Taal and the progression in the qualities of Cebu and Tagaytay and Angeles City.

The East Bel-Air offers perfect urban living in a suburban and elegant contemporary setting. It is a modern, family development comprising of six buildings all of which are only six floors high, ensuring convenience and an ample living space and boasting of superior country club facilities reminiscent of high-end resort properties that Sta. Lucia has developed through the years.

It is a retail housing development that suits the lifestyle and wants of the young, modern professional homeowner of today.

Outstanding Value for Your Contemporary Lifestyle

At its price range, East Bel-Air offers superior value-for-money like no other development in the eastern side of Metro Manila.

For one, its location is a winner. It is just a convenient 35-minute commute to and from the Origo business district on one side and 25-minute ride to and from the LRT 2 Magallanes terminal that gives the future residents of this soon-to-be launched project the access to universities, office and business districts and commercial centers throughout Metro Manila.

Moreover, it is just a 5-minute drive to the Sta. Lucia Center and another five minutes away to other well-known malls, churches and worship places, entertainment facilities and even hospitals and clinics.

On another level, it is a versatile residential condominium. It is a suburban setting with the most complete amenities, landscaped gardens, swimming pool and play area for the recreation of future residents, as well as a two-story clubhouse with multi-purpose hall, lounge and function rooms for community activities and functions.

These, indeed, are perfect for today's young urban professional and suburban family.

Well-Defined Facilities for Well-Defined

East Bel-Air is perfect for the new young urban professional whose priority is to live in a condo that is up to par with the contemporary architectural and interior design of developments in the inner city. These inner city condos may offer functionality or proximity, but greatly suffer from the lack of space, geometry and modern lifestyle amenities that provide quality of life for the residents.

East Bel-Air possesses among features that combine efficiency, functionality, on-the-one hand, and beauty and ample living spaces inside and outside units that promote modernity, serenity and healthy lifestyle.

Most of the studio and one-bedroom units have their own balcony that faces beautifully landscaped gardens and the open space along the main road. The main corridors of all floors are designed to have broad windows at both ends, thus bringing in the fresh breeze from the Anahapili that provides natural ventilation and cooling to all the buildings in the complex.

All units come fully furnished using contemporary American design, along with its well-appointed kitchen, bath and other amenities and fixtures, in line with the fashionable theme of the master-planned building residential complex.

The Wisest Investment

For all these reasons, the considerable choice for the future single and newly married homeowners aspiring to invest and set up their future homes is East Bel-Air.

It is ideal for single working class and girls set to be five years out of college and the newly married couples who want to go on their own. Since the East Bel-Air is a condominium, residents are assured of security and low-maintenance of the gardens, pool and play area and common facilities.

East Bel-Air is targeted for the first families of young men and women who are residents of Tagaytay, Marikina, Cavite, Tagaytay, Alibon City, Angeles and even Marikina and Cebu residents have become employed at multinational corporations. Likewise, it is a wise and profitable middle-class home for working professionals who want the convenience of staying in a highly livable community during working days, and who would want to go to their original homes in the eastern part of the city.

Moreover, clients very happy and generous with us are our instant and best-loved. The East Bel-Air studio and one-bedroom units are sold and bought before we left. Therefore, they are well away from home.

Budget gap in 5 months at only P9.5B

Gov't spending down due to project reviews

By Ramon W. Delos Angeles

GOVERNMENT spending in May went over the budget by P9.6 billion, just about a third of the P30.26-billion overspending posted in the same month last year.

This brought the budget deficit for the five months to May to P50.94 billion, just 6 percent of the P942.1 billion recorded in the same period of 2013.

Budget Secretary Francis D.

Alat said yesterday the numbers showed that government spending longplanned would not increase as so during the remaining months of the year.

Alat said the improvement was seen not only in the flow of cash but also in the quality of public goods and services provided. After government agencies have conducted a thorough review of the content and efficiency of their programs and projects, they are now ready to spend with much impact, Alat said.

January-May expenses totaled P591 billion, or 18.5 percent less than the P690.1 billion incurred in the same period of 2013.

Comparing it to the year-on-year decrease in spending from January to May, Alat said the previous period was beyond control, considering that it was the height of election-related spending.

The budget plan said that despite faster disbursement releases, commitment to cash disbursements compared with last year's level remained due to faster implementation of projects.

This resulted in lower dis-

Property boom seen to continue

By Abigail H.

THE LOCAL real property sector is expected to maintain its growth trajectory for the coming years, driven by huge demand for residential and commercial space as well as infrastructure development.

Jack Simoes, chair and chief executive of real estate advisory firm CB Richard Ellis Philippines, said in a briefing yesterday that the growth that the Philippines was seeing could not be considered a bubble as there was a lot of real demand and the sector's fundamentals were very strong.

This growth, he said, could be seen across the Asia Pacific and not just the Philippines. The country, however, had a huge edge in terms of low lease rates as well as the governance of a strong BPO sector.

"No Hong Kong, we're seeing record sales in real estate. We're seeing the same thing in China and Singapore, but the Philippines is more cost-effective. There's a huge demand for office space here. Also, because of the United States' downturn, the Philippines is being positioned to get more BPO business," he explained.

The local office sector has its best four months, driven by BPO growth. Office space take-up reached more than 300,000 square meters this year. This is a huge month for the Philippines. The country has among the lowest rental rates, the highest yields and the highest demand. He hasn't seen this kind of demand since the time of President Ramos, pre-financial crisis," he added.

He said growth in office space take-up, particularly for BPO operations, was expected to extend beyond Metro Manila. Even within the metropolis, there was a lot of demand for space outside the traditional locations, or the Makati and Ortigas central business districts.

CBRE vice chair for global corporate services Jay Sabinson said that even with rising lease costs, vacancy rates in most business

Inflation accelerating

Gov't cites hike in tuition, prices of supplies

By Michelle K. Bano

THE RATE of increase in consumer prices in June was reported to have breached the government's threshold of 5 percent, due to increases in the volume of government workers, nationwide parcel and other supplies.

This was according to the projection by the Philippine Statistical Agency, which said inflation in June had likely settled between 4.6 and 5.5 percent.

It is higher than the 4.5 percent registered in April and the average of 4.2 percent registered for the first five months of the year.

BSA Governor Antonio Manzano Jr. said, however, that although in June a new climbing 5 percent in June and in the third quarter, the full year average is still expected to fall within the official target of 4 to 5 percent. He added that inflation over the year will likely stay within the target range.

"The updated forecast inflation rate for the balance of 2011 and for 2012 will show the inflation will be manageable. The [BSA] will ensure that the liquidity provided by these flows will not create further inflationary pressures," Manzano said in a report yesterday.

Should the 5.5% inflation forecast for June materialize, the average inflation for the first half would climb to between 4.5 percent and 4.7 percent.

Meanwhile, First Metro Investments Corp. said inflation was reported to accelerate in the third quarter, but added that the average for the year would be within "tolerable" levels.

According to FIMCO's own forecast, inflation would average this year at 4.6 percent.

Ignacio Casis, head of FIMCO's asset management group, said in a briefing yesterday that concerns earlier this year over potentially volatile inflation have subsided.

FIMCO cited the outlook of proper monetary policy and ample supply of rice and other key agricultural products as factors keeping inflation within the targeted level.

Despite this, the central bank's month-in-month rise in reserve requirement for banks, a move aimed at preventing the increase in consumer prices from accelerating beyond target levels.

DOE offers 15 oil, gas areas to investors

By Amy R. Bano

THE DEPARTMENT of Energy is set to roll out today 15 areas for possible oil and gas exploration, an 80 percent increase in the country's dependence on costly imported oil and energy-related energy security.

Through the Fourth Philippine Energy Contracting Round (PCRC 4), the government will offer investment contracts in exploration and develop three offshore and 12 offshore blocks covering over 14 million hectares in Northwest Palawan, East Palawan and Sulu Sea basins.

"This year's contracting round will be the biggest yet offered by the Philippines," the DOE said.

Areas that are expected to generate the most interest are the three blocks in North-west Palawan, which is home to the Malinao, pays deep-water gas-to-power project, the largest and most successful natural gas industrial project in the country.

Investors are also expected to be keen on five blocks in the Sulu Sea, where petroleum exploration giant ExxonMobil Exploration and Production Philippines P.V. has already drilled four wells.

Three of these four wells have indicated the presence of gas, a report that has further encouraged investors to look more closely at the Philippines for potential petroleum sites.

"The PCRC 4 is envisioned to address the country's energy supply through the exploration of 2000 indigenous resources. Maximizing local resources will help the country meet its daily demand and reduce the importation of petroleum and petroleum products," the DOE explained.

Property

have been planned to low single-digit levels.

"We're seeing sustained office demand for both BPO and traditional office space. We're back in 2007 levels, where we saw the height of the office space take-up," he said.

In some such as the Makati and Ortigas CBDs, where monthly rents have averaged P100 and P150 per square meter, respectively, he said vacancy rates were down to 4.4 percent and 2.6 percent at the end of the second quarter, with no new developments in sight.

Quezon City and the other Southside area in Taguig City have a huge potential to fill the supply-demand gap, he said.

In Quezon City, while the vacancy rate has gone down to just 2.75 percent at the end of the first half, an additional 165,000 square meters in new space will be completed next year.

In New Manila, on the other hand, 190,000 square meters of flexible office space are due for completion within the year, with a number of new developments expected to be finished over the year and in 2013.

"On a macroeconomic point of view, this is a bit of a bubble. We're seeing the start of the up-cycle. There's real demand. There's also a lot of potential in the retail and gaming sectors," Manzano said.

Years of MagicThree decades of good times
and great tasteRonald McDonald House
Charities Makes A Difference

Present in 119 countries all around the world, McDonald's has long been a part of communities, not only by providing good food and a great place for families and friends, but at the same time fulfilling an important role - giving back through the Ronald McDonald House Charities (RMHC), the charity of choice of McDonald's. First established in the United States in 1974, RMHC is now in over 52 countries with local chapters developing their own programs to address the basic needs of children - food, shelter, education, health, and above all, their happiness.

When RMHC first reached Philippine shores in 1993, it was clear how they can truly help make a difference in the lives of Filipino children: through its flagship program Bright Minds Read and Beby Babbly. For 15 years since, RMHC remains committed to uplifting children's lives and creating a chain of positive changes that hopes to ripple through the community.

The early years of RMHC in the Philippines brought McDonald's to different parts of the country, providing goods and supplies to people in need, but what was clear and nagging at the very heart of RMHC was the urgent need to make a lasting impact by addressing the root of the problem of the country's struggle with poverty - education.

It all starts with 'beginning' reading

In 2000, a study in RMHC revealed that 4 out of 10 children did not know how to read after Grade 3, thus triggering RMHC to focus its efforts in helping make every Filipino child a reader. Recognizing that the need to address this issue is a critical step and time is a child's education, RMHC further moved in on beginning reading through a program that reflects its importance as an essential learning skill and at the same time spreads the love of reading. The result is "Bright Minds Read".

In this day and age of technological advancement, RMHC aims to fit in to get back to the basics and instill in children as an early age, a desire for knowledge through reading. More than just recognizing and reinforcing words, RMHC effectively used books to make learning how to read easy, fun and exciting.

Developing young minds for the future

For children, under the program, it's a step closer to preparing them for higher education. At an early age, their comprehension and critical thinking skills are developed and honed as every RMHC story book is used as a springboard for students to learn oral language, vocabulary, and proper pronunciation of words. Each storybook is also illustrated with colorful images that stimulate and broaden imagination.

"I had fun during my RMHC sessions at school. It's do it again if given the chance," says 8-year-old Betshele Montolio, currently a Grade 3 student in public elementary school in Makati, who is now one of the millions of public school students that have stepped the bright RMHC since 2002.

For parents, RMHC brings instant gratification to see their young ones master the art of reading not just in English but also in Filipino. There's because RMHC gives emphasis both in the country's mother tongue and the national language, but more importantly instills the value of reading as a skill to develop their capability for learning.

"We're raising our young ones and for me, it's not too hard to say. At the end of the day, it's not just about reading, it's about being a reader. It's about being a reader who can read and understand what he's reading," says Gloria Beto, mother of 8-year-old Betshele, another former RMHC student.

Both aspiring doctors, Betshele and Betshele have discovered a new found love for reading, which has translated to a better appreciation for learning. "I want to be a doctor so I can help people," says Betshele. "I want to be a doctor so I can help people so I can be a good doctor."

Creating a positive change

RMHC is a partnership program with the Department of Education that provides Grade 1 students the essential tools to develop their skills in reading, and their teachers the necessary to teach their students. Every school where RMHC is adopted receives a reader, which contains 10 story books, 20 of which are in Filipino and 10 in English. Through our stations from the District, public school teachers are trained on how to conduct

"I had fun during my RMHC sessions at school. I'd do it again if given the chance," says 8-year-old Betshele Montolio, currently a Grade 3 student in public elementary school in Makati.

RMHC sessions through lesson plans, as well as make their students through pre-test and a post-test. RMHC has been a long way from when it was launched in 2002 with 14 pilot schools. In the same year, RMHC has also led along the number of schools 1 non-member from private, public, even then, the end of the road is still far from sight.

"We have done very well with RMHC, but it is hardly a sign of how much more needs to be done," says Margie Torres, National Philippines GM for Marketing and Innovative Strategy for RMHC. "Our mission in RMHC is to have more non-member in the country and our work with RMHC will be continuous."

With RMHC present in over 2,700 public elementary schools nationwide and in 17 regions including SRAAR, it is only a matter of time before more students like Betshele and Betshele discover their love for learning through developing their skills in reading, and ultimately improve their capability for both. Truly RMHC and RMHC solidify the progressive cycle they have a hand of making a difference in the lives of children, and their families, eventually affecting positive change in the community.

Building the nation, one community at a time

Giving hope to each community through Bahay Bulilit

Few words can describe the joy kids feel when they have a safe and comfortable place to play, read, and do what they love during the week-end days. Each community is required to have a day care center for young children, but not all have the capability to build a secure structure, or even have one at all. Still, with more and more children needing a safe environment before they can learn to walk, their parents, along the way, develop their own social and personal traits. Day care centers prove to be indispensable to a community.

With this in mind, RMHC launched Bahay Bulilit, an initiative wherein low-cost day care centers are built in areas where they are most needed.

Little house filled with big dreams

A program implemented in partnership with the Department of Social Welfare and Development (DSWD) and local government units, Bahay Bulilit is a place for children 2 to 6 years old to learn crucial skills in preparation for formal schooling. Seasoned social workers, volunteers and members of the community devote time and effort to teach children social interaction, proper behavior, and other important lessons.

In the Philippines, RMHC found over 100 Bahay Bulilit in Manila, Cebu, the Visayas and Region 10, in line for the new centers enrolled in Day Care and Kinder Level 1. Right at its heels is the 15th Bahay Bulilit to be built in Iloilo in the coming months.

During the recovery of the Bahay Bulilit in Manding, B. Baco, Cebu, Teacher Rose, a DSWD volunteer in charge of the facility's day care and kindergarten education, could not contain her happiness in seeing the completion of the children's new second home. "As a teacher and as a mother, we're always worried about the safety of our students/learners before, all we had was a very old house. Now, we can go to school with confidence for learning," she says.

Because their old kindergarten was too old, these results having to talk to some 10 to 20 students in one class in a loud room whenever it was because the loud sound from the roof became too distracting.

The recently opened Bahay Bulilit is 900 square meters big, with separate class rooms for girls and boys. Inside, there are more to help students in check, while plans are made for the room for a more relaxing atmosphere.

RMHC Executive Director Marjorie Torres stresses the need for a safe environment, not just for the sake of the children, but also for the sake of the parents and teachers involved in the children's education. "Education is not just about school and books, but also personality and skills," she says. "Bahay Bulilit provides a safe environment for young children to acquire that kind education in a place where they feel comfortable."

Responding to the Filipino needs

In a country where education is not the only pressing issue, RMHC has developed another program to alleviate the pains caused by loss of food and shelter from natural calamities, which are unfortunately not uncommon.

Launched in 2000, RMHC's "Rice Taling" program has helped thousands of disaster victims during natural calamities. In this program, RMHC uses McDonald's rice nationwide to ensure where the public can easily drop off their cash or goods donations. RMHC then collects all donations and uses it to assist in providing emergency items such as the Philippine National Red Cross and DSWD.

For more than three years, RMHC has been running Rice Taling in different parts of the country by biggest operation happened during Typhoon Ondoy, when the country was struggling for the devastation it caused all over the Philippines. RMHC was one of the first to respond by dispatching and distributing thousands of food items and items to different barangays in Iloilo, Pangasinan, and Legaspi, as well as donations of cash and other goods.

Making the community come together

The Bahay Bulilit and Bigay Tulong programs can involve the value of charity intrinsic in RMHC, in McDonald's, and in every individual that has become part of this supportive community. From the students, the teachers, and the social workers, to the parents, organizations and customers, RMHC continues to create positive change in the lives of children who have found a safe home in Bahay Bulilit, and of Filipino families who have found a way to recover from disaster through Bigay Tulong.

BEING PART OF THE RMHC COMMUNITY

Over the years, RMHC has engaged both customers and employees in extending a helping hand, united in the goal of making a difference in the lives of children and their communities.

To begin the "You Change our Change Lives" campaign, McDonald's customers, in their own little way, have donated space-time to contribute toward building countries to meet RMHC's vision nationwide, proving the slogan that "little bit goes a long way."

Every McDonald's Happy Meal sold automatically contributes 10 centavos to the RMHC, which the charity, in turn, uses for its programs.

RMHC hosts an Annual Fund-raising Event which gives corporations an opportunity to give back to the public. The yearly corporate charity event, now in its 10th year, also allows employees of different companies to showcase skills and partnership in a friendly competition.

For 10 years, the Annual Fund-raising Event, spearheaded by McDonald's, has raised millions for the benefit of RMHC and its humanitarian programs. Right about now, this year, more than 50 different teams participated, including McDonald's partners, affiliates and customers. This gives the chance for individuals or private companies to help in fun and exciting way.

Every November, McDonald's around the world celebrates World Children's Day through various activities for the benefit of the charity of choice, RMHC. In the Philippines, McDonald's holds Children's Day where children and adults join in a fun run to raise funds for RMHC and its programs. The McHappy Day Fun Run is a celebration of family togetherness while giving back to the community.

Individuals and organizations around the world to help their help and support for RMHC through donations in participation in various RMHC initiatives. To find out more about how you can help RMHC, visit www.rmhc.org.ph/philippines.

Megaworld Lifestyle Malls

Premier real estate developer Megaworld expands its properties with commercial developments recognized as the country's most admired lifestyle malls.

Newport Mall in Resorts World Manila

Forbes Town Center in Pasig

These signature developments are more at part of Megaworld's Lifestyle Malls, a collection of commercial centers that combine urban living at its best and are developed by Megaworld Corporation. Carrying the Megaworld name in the label gives the guarantee of quality and these centers only to those developments.

The Megaworld Lifestyle Malls are Venice Piazza at McKinley Hill and Forbes Town Center in Pasig, Eastwood Mall in Pasig, Newport Mall in Resorts World Manila, The Clubhouse at Temple Drive in Carmona Hills, Paseo Center in Marikina, and the three malls in Eastwood City in Quezon City namely Eastwood City and Paseo Mall, Eastwood Citywalk, and Eastwood Mall.

Each of the malls is a total realization of the "play" component in the five-word play concept pioneered and popularized by Megaworld.

Two of these are located in Eastwood City, Eastwood City, along C-5, is the 24/7 community surrounded by residential high-rise buildings and a citywalk. This place is popular for its shopping and the diversity of its residents and resident professionals. It has 3 different malls in one building park, namely Eastwood City and Eastwood Mall for family and trendy budget finds, Eastwood Citywalk for hip shops and fast parties, and Eastwood Mall for stylish shopping and street shows along The Clubhouse at Temple Drive in Carmona Hills is the last-back community center that is adjacent to a high-end village and a lake, which includes Santa's Lake, Restara, and Lodge Estate, among others.

South of the Metro, Venice Piazza in McKinley Hill, Fort Bonifacio offers a world-class dining experience that is lake-adjacent. It is a restaurant hub that will soon be a full-scale mall, complete with retail shops, cinemas, and its own Italian-based Canal and Rialto Bridge. Forbes Town Center, also in Pasig, is the family-oriented neighborhood that's reminiscent of suburban towns. Tucked away in a residential lot business community, it's a strip lined with unique concept stores and high-end hotels in the mall restaurants. Paseo Center offers a varied mix of fast foods, restaurants, and service shops for the suburban area and business centers. Newport Mall in Resorts World Manila, across M-3, is the 24/7 destination for family shopping and the facilities party scene. International fast-food chains McDonald's can be found in a majority of these Megaworld Lifestyle Malls. Eastwood City, in fact, the first to have the 24/7 McDonald's in the country. Undoubtedly, the Megaworld Lifestyle Malls are enhancing the entertainment and lifestyle industry in the country.

Expect more top-class developments under Megaworld Lifestyle Malls in the near future. Among them are Lucky Chinese Center Mall in Bonifacio which is set to open in the last quarter of 2011 and another one in Laguna which will open in 2012.

The country's most admired lifestyle malls, Megaworld Lifestyle Malls, are evidently bringing positive economic change into the country with the priority decision of premier real estate developer Megaworld.
